This trainload is brought in as an Easter Greeting-a labor of love, for there is no profit at the price for us. Eggs are scarcer than usual on account of the backward weather, and they cost us more than we bargained for. But we could not afford to disappoint the children, who look forward to the annual arrival of the Egg Train as an event second in importance only to the arrival of old Santa Glaus himself. So we instructed our egg buyers to fill the train and have it here on time, regardless of cost or profit. Now the youngsters may have a joyous Easter and all the eggs they want. The "grown-ups" can look out for themselves, and we have a host of good things this week for the economical.
